Information Collection and Use

Perrigo Australia collects information from our users at several different points on our web sites. We may ask for your contact information (such as your email address, mailing address, telephone or fax number). We may also ask for information about your preferences or relevant areas of interest. We use this information to improve your experience at our web site, show you content that is relevant or that we think might be of interest to you or use it for the purpose of tailoring and improving our service to you. Email Communication and Newsletter Subscription

We will only communicate with you by email when you give us permission to do so. We may use aggregated member information to develop communications that are relevant to your interests. We may send new registrants and subscribers to the Manufacturing Interest Group a welcoming email. We ask our new subscribers in the welcoming email to then confirm their new subscription to the newsletter as a way of protecting them from unwanted emails. New members receive newsletters and product updates from us only if they follow the confirmation instructions in the welcoming email. If new members do not wish to receive such newsletters and updates, they do not need to take any action. If at any time you wish to have access to any information that we have on you, or you do not wish to receive further communication from us, please do not hesitate to contact us on:
